

Baseball and Basketball Columbia's Only Paying Sports—American League Still Opposes Truce

COLUMBIA LOSES $1,000 ON SPORTS

Only Basketball and Baseball of Thirteen Athletic Activities Are Self-Supporting.

CREW BIGGEST EXPENSE

Baseball and basketball were the only sports on the Columbia list of thirteen athletic activities that paid for themselves last year, according to the annual report for the year ended June 30 of the Columbia University Athletic Association, made public yesterday by Harry A. Plator, having showed the greatest deficit—exactly $1,400. The total deficit of the association was $994.07, as against a credit balance of $548.66 for the previous year. The loss was traceable to a decrease of student and alumni dues amounting to $670 and increases in the expenditures of the minor sports teams.

Baseball turned over a credit balance to the association of $994.78, the gate receipts amounting to $5,713.97. Basketball's gate receipts amounted to $4,553.66. Expenses in minor sports teams, however, were not so successful. Basketball's gate receipts were $4,510. Basketball not only paid, but it outdrew the so-called major sports.

The other minor sports lost heavily, hockey being the least able to support itself. This was due, however, to the added expense of building a rink on the $500,000 tennis courts at 117th street and Amsterdam avenue. Poor hockey weather made it impossible for the team to play a single game.

In crew, which lost more heavily than any other sport, the receipts were $4,490, while the expenditures amounted to $9,900. Several subscriptions cut down the loss on crew, $2,108.37 being collected in this manner. Because of the Yale race this fall it is expected that the expenses will jump to nearly $10,000. With the return of football, however, the added expense of crew will not cause a greater deficit.

The minor sports deficits were: Hockey, $714.49; fencing, $503.15; swimming, $481.04; gymnastics, $315.90; soccer, $395.91; wrestling, $190.63; tennis, $24.05; freshmen teams, $20.25.

Track was second to crew in its deficit, $1,321.20 being lost on the third of the major sports. Despite the losses, the association still has a credit balance due to a reserve fund of $774.76. In 1905 the association had cleared a debt of $18,000 and paid off the last of its reserve fund. When football was not resumed in 1910 it was agreed to turn over the money to the university. In order to start football this fall the athletic association had to borrow from the university. It expects to pay the debt in at least three years.

In an effort to increase the athletic association membership a meeting of the important men on the campus was held last night. A campaign will be conducted next week to increase its membership. It will be dropped in order to make it a success. Robert W. Watt, chairman of the student board; Walter W. Dwyer, football manager; and Harry A. Fisher, speaker of the plans for the big campaign.

ARMY'S TICKETS IN DEMAND.

Already 11,000 of its 12,000 Asked For—Many to Be Heard From.

WEST POINT, Oct. 15.—Lieut. Charles B. Meyer, secretary and treasurer of the Army Athletic Association, announced tonight that 11,000 of the 12,000 tickets which form the Army's allotment for the Army-Navy football game to be played at the Polo Grounds on November 27 have been asked for and that nearly a thousand subscribers had yet to be heard from.

The distribution of tickets will be begun on October 25 and thereafter no mail will be opened until the distribution is finished. The tickets will be mailed to subscribers by the Army-Navy Athletic Association. The Army and Navy athletic associations have options on several thousand extra tickets that remain with the New York National League club. To further safeguard against speculators, these seats will not be issued except on an order from the secretary of either the Navy or Army athletic association.

ANY TRUCE MUST BE BY NATIONAL LEAGUE MEN

American Leaguers Opposed to Compromise With Feds, but Will Not Interfere if Companion Circuit Wants to Absorb Independents.

The general sentiment of organized baseball men is against peace negotiations with the Federal League. Ban Johnson and his American League colleagues stand as one against any form of compromise with the independents. It is true that Johnson and Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York Americans met a delegation of Federal Leaguers in Philadelphia last week, but not with the least amicable intention. Johnson insisted that James A. Gilmore, president of the outlaw circuit, should not be among those present at the informal powwow.

"The American League never will consent to meet the Federal League on equal terms," Johnson told the independent representatives, according to the assertions of an American League stockholder who was present. "The American League is a strong enough to stand on its own feet independent of any one if need be," he declared. "The public, by its cold reception of the independent cause, has proved our contention that there was neither room nor demand for a third league. The American League is the only one that has stood the test of time."

The other minor sports lost heavily, hockey being the least able to support itself. This was due, however, to the added expense of building a rink on the $500,000 tennis courts at 117th street and Amsterdam avenue. Poor hockey weather made it impossible for the team to play a single game.

CONQUEROR OF YALE TO OPPOSE HARVARD

Virginia Tries To-day to Make Its Record Two Straight in the North.

NAVY AND PENN TO CLASH

TO-DAY'S FOOTBALL GAMES. Harvard vs. Virginia at Cambridge. Yale vs. Springfield at New Haven. Princeton vs. Lafayette at Princeton. Navy vs. Penn at Annapolis. Army vs. Colgate at West Point. ## MAHAN WILL PLAY THROUGHOUT GAME WITH VIRGINIA; EXPECT HARD BATTLE

Southerners Really Feared by Crimson, Which Will Use Its Best Team.

ROLLINS IS IN BACKFIELD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—Harvard's football drill this afternoon was conducted in the absence of Percy Haughton, who was summoned suddenly to New York, but who expects to be here to witness the Virginia game to-morrow. The Crimson spent the afternoon brushing up its repertoire of offense for the Charlottesville players and the individual coaches put in a lot of time with the varsity linemen on points of defense.

Harvard will be a little stronger than against the Indians, but not much. Virginia will start the game at center, while the substitute tackles, Curtis and Caner, will replace Gilman and Parson. Willcox will begin the game at quarter, while Rollins will take McKinnock's place in the backfield with Mahan and Heister. The first team will be fairly strong, but in case of accident the Crimson will be very shy of first string substitutes.

The other minor sports lost heavily, hockey being the least able to support itself. This was due, however, to the added expense of building a rink on the $500,000 tennis courts at 117th street and Amsterdam avenue. Poor hockey weather made it impossible for the team to play a single game.

Pays $2.80 a Word to Ask for Tickets

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—The following cablegram was received last night by Dr. Thomas Barbour, '09, of Marlboro street, curator of Oceanica, from a Harvard graduate in Tannanarie, the capital of Madagascar:

"Leaving to-morrow; get me Yale tickets." At $2.80 a word the cost of reserving a seat in the stadium for November 20 amounted to $16.80. The man who sent the cablegram is Frederick R. Wilson, '13, who left Cambridge in 1914, after obtaining a degree at the Harvard Engineering School, and who has been collecting specimens in British East Africa and Madagascar for the Agassiz Museum.

The other minor sports lost heavily, hockey being the least able to support itself. This was due, however, to the added expense of building a rink on the $500,000 tennis courts at 117th street and Amsterdam avenue. Poor hockey weather made it impossible for the team to play a single game.

In crew, which lost more heavily than any other sport, the receipts were $4,490, while the expenditures amounted to $9,900. Several subscriptions cut down the loss on crew, $2,108.37 being collected in this manner. Because of the Yale race this fall it is expected that the expenses will jump to nearly $10,000. With the return of football, however, the added expense of crew will not cause a greater deficit.

The minor sports deficits were: Hockey, $714.49; fencing, $503.15; swimming, $481.04; gymnastics, $315.90; soccer, $395.91; wrestling, $190.63; tennis, $24.05; freshmen teams, $20.25.

Track was second to crew in its deficit, $1,321.20 being lost on the third of the major sports. Despite the losses, the association still has a credit balance due to a reserve fund of $774.76. In 1905 the association had cleared a debt of $18,000 and paid off the last of its reserve fund. When football was not resumed in 1910 it was agreed to turn over the money to the university. In order to start football this fall the athletic association had to borrow from the university. It expects to pay the debt in at least three years.

In an effort to increase the athletic association membership a meeting of the important men on the campus was held last night. A campaign will be conducted next week to increase its membership. It will be dropped in order to make it a success. Robert W. Watt, chairman of the student board; Walter W. Dwyer, football manager; and Harry A. Fisher, speaker of the plans for the big campaign.

CORNELL IN GOOD SHAPE

and Buehler alternated at quarter and fullback for Yale against Springfield Eleven. Wilson at Quarter, Legore at Fullback for Yale Against Springfield Eleven.

The other minor sports lost heavily, hockey being the least able to support itself. This was due, however, to the added expense of building a rink on the $500,000 tennis courts at 117th street and Amsterdam avenue. Poor hockey weather made it impossible for the team to play a single game.

In crew, which lost more heavily than any other sport, the receipts were $4,490, while the expenditures amounted to $9,900. Several subscriptions cut down the loss on crew, $2,108.37 being collected in this manner. Because of the Yale race this fall it is expected that the expenses will jump to nearly $10,000. With the return of football, however, the added expense of crew will not cause a greater deficit.

The minor sports deficits were: Hockey, $714.49; fencing, $503.15; swimming, $481.04; gymnastics, $315.90; soccer, $395.91; wrestling, $190.63; tennis, $24.05; freshmen teams, $20.25.

Track was second to crew in its deficit, $1,321.20 being lost on the third of the major
